"Move over Kool Keith!" Time Out New York

"Wembley's answer to the Beastie Boys" DJ FORMAT

This remarkable single is taken from the forthcoming LP: “LAND OF THE GOOSENECK STEPPERS”

Released June 2011 on ITUNES and the new Promoscratch™ DPR download-card format.

This 19-track concept album (a rare commodity for a UK hip-hop release) is an old school funky psychedelic comic book radio nightmare that takes the listener on a uniquely entertaining journey “through the middle hole of an old 7-inch, to a land far away from your neighbourhood, so come along if you think you should...”. How do you get there? Simple: “Put these magic grillz into your mouth, click your heels and repeat 3 times “there’s no place like old-school!”.

A refreshingly original modern take on classic hip-hop with a dollop of downright madness thrown in, this project has been 3 years in the making. With recording and mixing squeezed in between an often hectic touring schedule, the up-and-coming duo’s warped sense of humour, along with their impressive set of production, songwriting, MC, human-beatbox, instrumental, percussion, voice-acting and turntable skills are blended to filmic effect on this record.

The result resembles a mash up of 3Ft High and Rising, Bang for the Buck, Ill Communication, Deltron 3030, Quasimoto, The Mighty Boosh, 1984, Brave New World, Monty Python and Ren and Stimpy.

Providing a surreal alternative to doom and gloom, gangsters, pimps, bling, grime and reality, this record stimulates the listener’s imagination and sticks out like a sore thumb not only in terms of the UK hip-hop scene, but also as a superb British music release.

“Prince Paul smoking a crack-pipe with Syd Barrett...” JOCKEY SLUT MAGAZINE

“Having shared stages with the likes of Ugly Duckling, DJ Format, The Pharcyde, Mr Scruff, Breakestra, DJ Yoda, Anti Pop Consortium and De La Soul, it’s not a huge surprise to find out how good they are” thebeatsurrender.co.uk

“This 2-piece hip-hop extravaganza from the UK have a live set that has to be seen to be believed...their sound has the old school vibes of that golden block-party era of hip-hop so sadly missing from most of today’s acts.” Altitude Festival (France)
